Weather Sun shines — at last

DARREN KRAUSE/METRO CALGARY

Calgarians wondering what that orange ball of flame was, passing through the sky over the city, can rest assured it was just something they call "the sun" — and it's expected to stick around and warm things up for the next several days, with temperatures finally reaching near-seasonal values.

Cop recovering after ASIRT office stabbing

Media outlets reporting suspect as man who was shot by police

KATIE TURNER
for Metro Calgary

A 25-year RCMP veteran is recovering in hospital after being stabbed yesterday at the Alberta Serious Incident Response Team office.

Sgt. Andrew Johnson, 53, underwent multiple surgeries yesterday at the Foothills Hospital and was upgraded to good condition, said Clifton Purvis, ASIRT's executive director.

"I credit the swift actions of the ASIRT investigators with saving Sgt. Johnson's life," said Purvis.

According to The Canadian Press, some Calgary media outlets were reporting the suspect as Lee Christopher Monrose, 30, who was shot in the head by police last November.

At the time, officers were responding to a call about a suspicious car and tried to pull over Monrose's vehicle.

ASIRT is still investigating that incident and has not yet made a ruling.

Police would not confirm Monrose's alleged involvement.

Just before the stabbing, a man came to the ASIRT office without an appointment and was taken into an interview room by Johnson, said Calgary police Duty Insp. Vic Trickett.

Trickett said Johnson was stabbed three times. Two ASIRT officers came to Johnson's aid and were able to detain the suspect.

One of the men, a Calgary police officer, received minor wounds to his hand but was not taken to hospital, said RCMP Supt. Randy McGinnis.

The suspect was taken into police custody and transported to hospital to be treated for a head injury, said McGinnis.

As the case involves members of the Calgary police, RCMP and ASIRT, the Edmonton Police Service will be conducting the investigation, said Purvis.

This incident comes just two weeks after ASIRT had initiated a security review of their premise.

"Curiously enough, here we are with this incident at this time," said Purvis.

Johnson is expected to make a full recovery.

Charges have yet to be laid.

Anders clarifies 'pull the trigger' message

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

OTTAWA Calgary Conservative MP Rob Anders yesterday cleared up controversial comments he wrote on a "Support Our Troops" card to military in Afghanistan last week.

"When in doubt, pull the trigger" was the message scripted by Anders on the card, which was also signed by the likes of Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Defence Minister Peter MacKay, and the words sparked mass controversy.

"Last week, I wrote a note on a card to our troops in Afghanistan. I meant to say, 'Keep safe and defend yourselves,'" Anders said in the House of Commons yesterday.

"For those who found my note inappropriate, I apologize for any offence taken."

Anders's office declined further comment, instead referring to his remarks in the House of Commons.

According to CTV news, MacKay said Anders's comments were inappropriate.

Despite his apology, Donna Kennedy-Glans, a constituent in Anders's riding and outspoken opponent of his, was perplexed by his comments.

"My reaction is Rob continues to shoot himself in the foot, and it's embarrassing for him and it's embarrassing to be in his riding," she said.

Schools could cut 277 jobs

Up to 277 full-time positions could be lost as the Calgary Board of Education announced a preliminary $10-million deficit budget yesterday.

The job cuts, which could include 192 full-time teachers and 85 full-time support workers and custodial staff, have some teachers fuming.

While the budget still has to be debated and approved by the board of trustees and final numbers won't be known until Sept. 30. The news has anxious teachers stewing over what they will do next year, including 33-year-old Jennifer, who withheld her last name. Jennifer's contract is being cancelled due to cuts, she said.

"To be honest, I am completely screwed. I don't know what I am going to do for work and now there won't even be sub work. It's very discouraging," she said.

"There are over 12,000 positions with the CBE and only 5,000 of those are teachers. Couldn't they find other places to cut? Why would they cut teachers?"

While the CBE acknowledged the challenging budget, they said they are saddened to have to cut any jobs.

"We came up with the best solution we could come up with to retain as many positions as possible," chief superintendent Naomi Johnson said.

Officials emphasized that with next year's budget, the school's CBE one-time savings revenue of $19 million will be depleted and next year the board will start with a deficit.

Police still trying to track down driver in bus theft

THEFT While the alleged passenger in the city bus stolen Sunday has been arrested, police are still looking for the driver.

On Monday, Calgarian Jeffrey Keizer, 20, was taken into custody and charged with theft over $5,000 after tips from the public led police to his whereabouts.

"There was a barrage of tips," said acting Staff Sgt. Kristie Verheul. "I would say I received at least 15 Crime Stoppers tips and then there was the call last night (Monday) that led us to the arrest."

Keizer was arrested at a home in the 6200 block of Penworth Road SE, just blocks away from where the bus was abandoned.

Verheul said Keizer was co-operative in helping to identify the driver of the bus. "We have identified a potential suspect for the driver, however it's not confirmed at this time and we have not arrested him," said Verheul.

The bus was stolen after a transit driver left it idling outside of a southeast restaurant.

Those with information are asked to call police at 403-266-1234.

Students become teachers at mayor's enviro expo

PETER MCCARTNEY
for Metro Calgary

Students from Nellie McClung School weren't afraid to get their hands dirty to exhibit how worms can reduce waste for their school.

In the 10 years students have been allowed at the Mayor's Environment Expo, 40,000 youth have been educated about environmental issues through projects and presentations.

However, lately the tables have turned and children, like those from Nellie McClung, are teaching adults different methods to safeguard the new generation's future.

"The barrier is not them, it's adults — it's us," said Deputy Mayor Brian Pincott after hearing from students who want to reduce idling.

Nellie McClung's green club showed visitors how it uses vermicomposters, bins full of worms, to reduce the school's garbage output.

SHELBY DORY'S FOR METRO CALGARY

Hanna Wheler and Alexa Calkhoven of Nellie McClung Elementary school's Green Club demonstrate worm composting at the Mayor's Environment Expo.

"It's just one little thing, but it really helps the environment," said Alex Vanderput, 11.

Teacher Karen Davis, who runs the club, said students came up with the idea, built the composters, put them in the school cafeteria and finally educated their classmates through presentations — cutting organic waste roughly in half.

"It shows we are getting our message through. It's working and we're making a difference, said Alexa Calkhoven, 11.

Davis, who has taught for 17 years, said the new generation of young kids is more environmentally conscious than ever before. "They're way beyond reduce, reuse, recycle. They're coming up with new R's! Like refuse."

The expo runs until June 3 in the city hall atrium.

Want a job? Go to the movies

EMPLOYMENT Students and youth looking for summer jobs have another 60 part-time positions to compete for as the SilverCity Cross-Iron Mills Cinemas near Balzac announced it is opening a theatre later this month. The part-time positions are available within the theatre and the company believes it will "become the most sought-after workplace in the community" for youth.

SENTENCE Not seeking help for his 16-month-old daughter when she drank methadone in the family home has garnered a Calgary father 2½ years in jail, a court ordered yesterday. Jonathan Hope was found guilty earlier this year of failing to provide the necessities of life to the child, who died in the 2006 incident. A judge ruled Hope didn't do enough to help his daughter when it was apparent she became very ill.

SCHOOLS Keys to 18 new schools completed through a public-private partnership (P3) have been delivered to school boards in Calgary and Edmonton by the Alberta government one month sooner than expected. Hefty price to build historic aircraft PRESERVATION Two aircraft strewn about Calgary may be made whole once again, and a city committee is debating spending $80,000 to do it. The de Havilland Mosquito and Hawker Hurricane, two Second World War-era planes, are currently in pieces. But since one of the warehouses storing the Mosquito is slated for demolition, administration is recommending they be moved to one central warehouse.

"They're both city assets. They're valuable, they really should be brought together in a safe and secure space," said Ward 2 Ald. Gord Lowe.

Professional aircraft consultants are needed for the move and it's import0ant to keep the plane together, said a man behind the push to preserve the aircraft. "None of those storage places are good for the preservation of the planes," said Richard de Boer, Calgary Mosquito Society spokesperson.

Three Canadians held in flotilla raid

Foreign Affairs now says three Canadians are being detained in Israel following a military raid on a convoy of ships off the Gaza coast.

Kevin Neish

A department spokeswoman says officials are working with Israeli authorities to provide consular assistance to the Canadians, whose names were not released.

The daughter of Kevin Neish, a retired marine engineer from Victoria, has identified him as one of the three but says he should be home soon.

Jennifer Neish says Foreign Affairs has confirmed her 53-year-old father is alive and well and will be deported from Israel within 72 hours.

Neish was aboard one of six vessels on a mission to carry humanitarian relief to the blockaded Gaza Strip.

Nine of the pro-Palestinian activists on board were killed when Israeli soldiers stormed the flotilla Monday morning.

Neish was going to repair a well in a Palestinian community in Gaza but, on the ship, he was assigned to "defend" journalists in the event of a military boarding.

"Since the Israeli military always tries to seize the media first to destroy evidence, my job is to non-violently get in the way of the Israeli commandos in a narrow passageway for about 30 seconds so the journalists can upload their reports," he wrote last month on the website Dialogue with Diversity.

"It should be interesting, to say the least."

Confession brought end for soldier

MILITARY The extraordinary confession of a corporal set in motion the bombshell revelation that ended the tenure and possibly the military career of Canada's top soldier in Afghanistan.

The unidentified soldier told a trusted confidant at the Kandahar Airfield about her relationship with Brig.-Gen. Daniel Ménard, sparking a chain of events that reached the top echelons of the military and the government.

Within 24 hours, both Ménard and the soldier, a member of his staff, were on the same military transport plane, headed back to Canada, one defence source said.

In the course of a day, Ménard had gone from commanding 5,000 American and Canadian troops to a humiliating return to Canada to face a possible court martial.

Criminal, civil probes opened into oil spill

U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder said yesterday that federal authorities have opened criminal and civil investigations into the nation's worst oil spill, and BP lost billions in market value when shares dropped in the first trading day since the company failed yet again to plug the gusher.

Investors presumably realized the best chance to stop the leak was months away and there was no end in sight to the cleanup. As BP settled in for the long term, Holder announced the criminal probe, though he would not specify the companies or individuals that might be targeted.

"We will closely examine the actions of those involved in the spill. If we find evidence of illegal behaviour, we will be extremely forceful in our response," Holder said in New Orleans.

Holder

With the ambitious "top kill" abandoned over the weekend, BP's hope to stanch the leak lies with two relief wells that won't be finished until at least August. The company is, however, trying another risky temporary fix to contain the oil and siphon it to the surface by sawing through the leaking pipe and putting a cap over the spill.

The cleanup, relief wells and temporary fixes were being watched closely by U.S. President Barack Obama's administration.

The president gave the leaders of an independent commission investigating the spill orders to thoroughly examine the disaster and its causes, and to follow the facts wherever they lead, without fear or favour. The president said if laws are insufficient, they will be changed. He said if government oversight wasn't tough enough, that will change, too.

Meanwhile, BP spokesman Graham MacEwen said the company was awaiting analysis of water samples taken in the Gulf before making a final determination on plumes of oil underwater.

Gaza blockade eased in wake of raid

MIDDLE EAST Israel and Egypt signalled a temporary easing of the Gaza Strip blockade yesterday following harsh international condemnation of the deadly Israeli raid on an aid flotilla en route to the sealed-off Palestinian territory.

Egypt said it was freely opening its border with Gaza for the first time in more than a year to allow in humanitarian aid, setting off a mad rush to the crossing by thousands of residents, while an Israeli official said there is an "ongoing dialogue" on how to expand the amount of goods entering the area.

At the same time, Israel began expelling some of the nearly 700 activists it rounded up in the naval raid, and strongly rejected criticism that its tactics were heavy-handed.

Word on the street: Should we get rid of the penny?

Tia Laing
Calgary

A: (Yes) because the penny's cost is ridiculous. There's a lot better things we could be doing with that extra money spent making them.

Cody Weiss
Calgary

A: We should keep the penny. Having that currency exist is an important part of our cultural past and is an important part of the many historical symbols on coin faces. If they get rid of the penny then what's next? The nickle? The dime? I'm sure it wouldn't just stop there.

Gowoon Lee
Ottawa

A: Get rid of it. It's really pointless. You get so much change that you don't even know what to do with it.

Corey Tyhurst
Toronto

A: No. That would accelerate inflation because businesses would round everything up, and then everything that used to be three cents would be five cents ... I don't think inflation has devalued it enough to warrant getting rid of it.

Julia Green
Vancouver

A: Pennies are kind of annoying, but I would keep them. I really like to pay in exact change because I think not doing so just breeds more change!

Danny Barrett
Edmonton

A: Yes, because I heard it costs more to actually produce the penny than it is actually worth monetarily, assuming that it's true.

BoC hikes rate

Canada first among G7 to tighten monetary policy

Borrowing costs for consumers and businesses are slated to start rising moderately after the Bank of Canada moved off its ultra-stimulative monetary policy yesterday, hiking its trendsetting interest rate a quarter point.

It was the first time in almost three years that the central bank actually raised the policy rate but it will still be regarded as a bold and perhaps risky move on the part of governor Mark Carney.

The move lifts the trendsetting overnight rate to 0.5 per cent and puts Canada first among the world's G7 leading economies to start tightening monetary policy — and it may remain out on a limb for some time.

0.5 Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney raised the overnight rate to 0.5 per cent, up from 0.25 per cent, where it had been since April 2009.

Most analysts don't expect any others among the big seven to start raising interest rates until next year at the earliest.

The initial reaction of markets was to take the Canadian dollar down almost a cent to 94.93 cents US, although the loonie recovered most of the losses by mid-morning.

Scotiabank economist Derek Holt said the market reaction was in line with expectations that Carney would be more "hawkish" in his statement. Instead, the bank statement seemed to cast doubt whether it would continue to raise rates or take a pause.

"Given the considerable uncertainty surrounding the outlook, any further reduction of monetary stimulus would have to be weighed carefully against domestic and global economic developments," the bank said.

Markets had already largely priced in a quarter-point hike and most analysts had forecast Carney would keep making incremental increases for the rest of the year.

Business in brief

BANK PROFITS Canada's five biggest banks raked in a collective $5.01 billion in profits during the second quarter, holding steady with results from the previous period but still missing inflated analyst expectations. The quarterly tally fell short of the $5.09-billion profit that the group made during the first quarter of the year, when growth was starting to regain momentum on fewer bad loans and some pickup in mortgages. Missed expectations aside, Canada's banks actually showed significant gains when stacked to a year ago. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Business in brief

WINDOWS Google is moving to ban the use of Microsoft Windows software on internal computers due to security concerns, according to a report yesterday. Unnamed employees who spoke to the Financial Times said the search giant has been phasing out the use of the software on the computers its 10,000 worldwide employees use since January, when Google alleges Chinese government agents hacked into the company's Chinese operations. WestJet soon to announce partnership

WestJet Airlines Ltd. is close to forging a new partnership with a U.S. airline as it seeks to draw more international traffic into its network.

The Calgary-based airline's CEO says the company is "just on the verge" of being able to announce something on that front, but can't provide any details yet.

Gregg Saretsky says partnerships with other airlines to sell seats on one-another's planes — called code-shares — are key to closing the gap with WestJet's chief competitor, Air Canada.

Earlier this spring, WestJet and another would-be code-share partner, Southwest Airlines, called off a deal that had been in the works for two years. A few weeks later, WestJet said it signed an agreement with Delta Air Lines with an option to acquire slots at New York's LaGuardia Airport, but that a partnership deal had not been reached.

Last month WestJet and Hong Kong-based Cathay Pacific signed an inbound interline agreement, which would lay the groundwork for future code-sharing.

GM pumps $245M into plant

AUTO Improving demand for General Motors vehicles built in Canada is allowing the automaker to rapidly expand capacity, the company's Canadian president said yesterday as he announced the second major investment in a southern Ontario plant in just over a month.

"Strong customer demand for our new vehicles is driving improved financial results and the rapid capacity expansion under way," stated Kevin Williams, the new president of GM Canada.

The automaker said it will spend $245 million to build a new line of fuel-efficient six-speed transmissions at its St. Catharines, Ont., plant beginning in 2012. The investment will secure 400 existing jobs at the company's operations in the industrial city in the Niagara Region.

In late April, the company announced it would build a new generation of V8 engines at the same plant beginning in 2013.

Soderling scores upset over Federer

FRENCH OPEN There will be a Grand Slam semifinal without Roger Federer for the first time in six years.

French Open upset specialist Robin Soderling struck again yesterday, rallying past defending champion Federer in a rainy quarter-final, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4. That ended Federer's record streak of reaching the semifinals in 23 consecutive major events.

The shocker was the second pulled off by Soderling in as many years at Roland Garros. He ended the reign of four-time champion Rafael Nadal in the fourth round a year ago.

Because of Federer's defeat, Nadal will reclaim the No. 1 ranking next week if he wins the title. The upset raises the possibility of a Nadal-Soderling rematch in the final.

Flyers coach targets Niemi

Peter Laviolette went on the offensive yesterday, questioning how long rookie Chicago netminder Antti Niemi can stay hot, while at the same time lamenting a lost chance to exploit "holes" in the Blackhawks' defence.

The Philadelphia Flyers coach was probably trying to plant doubt in the minds of the Blackhawks after Chicago took the first two games of the Stanley Cup final on home ice. They now face Games 3 and 4 in the hostile confines of the Wachovia Center.

Game 3 is set for tonight (CBC, 6 p.m.), with the Flyers looking to rebound from a pair of closely contested, one-goal losses.

"We've got to put more pressure on their goaltender," said Laviolette. "He's a rookie goaltender playing in the Stanley Cup finals.

"We have to get on the board here and put a little bit of doubt there."

If that wasn't enough, Laviolette had another shovel of pressure to throw on the 26-year-old Niemi, who took over the No. 1 job from Cristobal Huet midseason and has started every playoff game for Chicago.

"Our team is capable of scoring a lot of goals — put a lot of pressure on him," said Laviolette.

"It's a tough position, goaltending.

"He's representing a city that hasn't won a Cup in 50 years (since 1961, actually). We have to give him a crack of doubt. We can do that (Wednesday) night."

Cavalier/Sunfire cheap to run, repair

JUSTIN PRITCHARD
for Metro Canada

Chevy Cavalier (pictured), along with Pontiac Sunfire, are popular options where price and value are concerned.

Second Gear

MODEL: 1995 to 2005 Pontiac Sunfire / Chevrolet Cavalier
VEHICLE TYPE: Sedan / Coupe
APPROXIMATE PRICE RANGE: $1,500 to $5,000

HISTORY/DESCRIPTION: The Cavalier and Sunfire were two mechanically-identical GM small sedan or coupe models sold under the Chevrolet and Pontiac brands, respectively. Sharing the J-Body platform, these twins were eventually replaced by the Chevrolet Cobalt and Pontiac G5 Pursuit.

The Cavalier and Sunfire weren't out to set any records for refinement or performance, but they're a popular choice where price and value are concerned. Coupe, convertible or sedan models were available with four-cylinder power and automatic or manual transmissions. With relatively plentiful selection, finding an ideal used candidate in your price range should be fairly easy.

WHAT OWNERS LIKE: Owners typically selected the Cavalier and Sunfire Coupe models for their sportiness and styling, with the sedan variants typically chosen for their overall sensibility.

WHAT OWNERS HATE: Common complaints tend to deal with unwelcomed sounds — including squeaks and rattles, road noise and squealing brakes. Some owners wish for more power from the older 2.2 litre engine, too.

COMMON ISSUES: Start your test-drive by inspecting all interior electronics for proper operation– including power windows, the sunroof and the climate control fan speed selector. The latter should work on all speed settings, not just "high." If that's not the case, a new blower-motor resistor is likely needed.

Does the car sound like it's got a trunk full of junk when driven over bumps? If so, worn out strut mounts are probably to blame. Similar sound effects from the front end indicate that mechanical attention is needed, too.

Avoid a model with extensive body or powertrain modifications, and be sure to inspect the car fully for rust. Finally, check the condition and level of all fluids.

Kia Magentis a charmer

The 2010 Kia Magentis is a comfortable mid-size family sedan.

LORNE DRURY
for Metro Canada

If you've never heard of the Kia Magentis, you're not alone. Despite the success Kia has enjoyed here in recent years, the Magentis may be one of the most obscure cars in the Canadian market.

I recently spent a week with the 2010 Magentis, a loaded SX-V6 model, which lists for $30,795, and came away with the feeling that the biggest problem with the car is that it just doesn't get noticed.

The four-door, five-passenger Magentis starts life in LX trim with a five-speed manual transmission and a 175 hp 2.4-litre inline four-cylinder engine. Priced at $21,995, it features six airbags, four wheel disc brakes with ABS, electronic stability control, cruise control, an audio system with AM/FM/CD/MP3 and six-speakers and steering wheel controls, keyless entry, manual air conditioning, heated front seats, windshield wiper de-icer and 16-inch wheels. All in all, it's a pretty impressive entry-level package. A five-speed automatic transmission adds $1,200 to the price.

This is more of a driver's car than the other trim lines as it has a sport-tuned suspension and steering wheel-mounted paddle shifters. I'm not sure how often drivers would use these paddle shifters, but it's a nice touch nevertheless.

The interior appears very spacious with generous rear seat legroom, certainly on par with others in the segment. Trunk room is generous and the 60/40 split rear seats can also be folded down to add to the cargo capacity.

The cabin is quiet and comfortable at speed and although this trim level was equipped with the sport suspension, the ride tends toward the comfort side of the ledger, handling bumps and potholes without too much jarring.

Ford Smartguage teaches green lessons

You know that you should drive in a fuel-efficient manner to save gasoline, but do you always know if you're doing the best you can? Ford has made it easier with the SmartGauge, found on the Fusion Hybrid.

The gauge, which can be programmed into one of four levels of information, was named the winner of the 2010 Best New Green Technology by the Automobile Journalists Association of Canada (AJAC).

"We designed the cluster to coach the driver to maximize fuel efficiency," says Sonya Nematollahi, Ford driving information engineering supervisor. "We did a lot of customer research and it came to this concept of coaching. Drivers don't want to be preached, but like a good coach, you're rewarding them."

Drivers are rewarded by a picture of a vine, which "grows" leaves during fuel-efficient driving. If your foot is too heavy, the leaves fall off. The picture can be shut off if it's considered too distracting, but Nematollahi says the gauge was carefully researched to avoid drawing too much attention.

"We used a virtual test that simulates road conditions, and customers came in and drove it," she says.

"Through the feedback, we made changes to the gauge to make it perfect, so it won't be distracting. We studied colours that weren't too fatiguing or wouldn't wash out in the sun."

Indeed, since the leaves appear in a cluster, rather than a straight line that might encourage the driver to count them, a quick glance is sufficient to judge how well you're doing. The gauge's LCD screens can be programmed with incremental amounts of information. Especially useful is a gauge that shows how close the vehicle is to running solely on electricity: the driver can run more often on the battery if he or she knows exactly when to let off on the throttle.

Lviv ready for revival

Cultural heritage standing the test of time

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
Metro World News

Just once in a while everything will come together for a city. Lviv in the western Ukraine feels like just such a city where the blend of low-costs, culture, and coolness is making it one of Europe's must-go destinations.

Some refer to Lviv as the "mini Vienna," others, the "Florence of the East" but the truth is, the edginess and even eeriness of the place make it very much its own destination.

Chaotic architecture sees baroque facades rubbing shoulders with gothic, rococo and renaissance styles and it's polyglot past only adds to the surreal magic feel of the place. Cooped-up for 50 years under Russian Communist rule.

Lviv is now ready to come out and play.

Volcano tourism exploding

PAUL BALDWIN
Metro World News

It may be the most foolhardy vacation on the planet — waiting for Mother Nature to get angry and spew super-heated rock into the sky before jumping on a plane for a close up view.

But wow, what a view…

The power, beauty, and somewhat humbling fury of an erupting volcano is a rare sight which will stay with anyone lucky enough to witness it for a lifetime.

And there are few people in the world more qualified to help you than Australian scientist and volcano adventurer John Seach.

John has spent the last 22 years watching more than 150 eruptions and now provides both expertise to the world's TV and film crews and runs his own travel company Volcano Live (volcanolive.com)

He specializes in offering would-be explorers both drop-of-a-hat expeditions at the first sign of an eruption and treks to the caldera of known active volcanoes.

"There is currently a lot of interest in volcanoes with the latest eruption in Iceland," he said.

"Volcano enthusiasts come from all backgrounds and ages. The common factor is a sense of wonder for the natural world. Volcanoes are the most impressive of all natural events."

He advised that Volcano tourism is not for the faint-hearted and there are real dangers attached.

"However in 21 years of volcano tours, I have never had an accident."

Volcano tourism has been on the boom since Iceland's erupted.

World's most actively erupting volcanos

There are 1,500 live volcanoes in the world and every day 20 of them are erupting.

Some of Metro's regularly erupting favourites include:

Kilauea, Hawaii
Height 1222 m

One of the world's most active and spectacular volcanoes, constantly erupting since 1983. A large collapse occurred in November 2005. Lava flows destroyed three houses in February 2008. A trip includes viewing the lava flows at the coast, and hiking along the east rift zone to Pu'u O'o crater, the source of the lava flows.

Yasur, Vanuatu
Height 405 m

Yasur has erupted many times per hour for at least 800 years. Yasur has been called the Lighthouse of the Pacific because of the regular eruptions of up to 350m which are visible from sea. A three day trek takes you close to the crater where you will see spectacular lava eruptions.

Arenal, Costa Rica
Height 1720 m

The youngest stratovolcano in Costa Rica and one of its most active, Arenal's crater contains a lava pool.

Lava extrudes in a pulsating pattern and then overflows the crater rim and flows almost continuously down the north to southwest flanks. Pyroclastic flows are a known danger to tourists.

Stromboli, Aeolian Islands, Italy
Height 926m

Stromboli volcano has one of the world's longest recorded periods of activity. The active craters are located 100-150 m below Pizzo sopra la Fossa. A collapse depression called Sciara del Fuoco is located below the active craters.

Lake Baikal, Russia is as picturesque as it is clean — embrace both.

Nothing bleak about Baikal

PAUL BALDWIN
Metro World News

Siberia might have a reputation for being bleak but there is nothing bland about Lake Baikal in Russia.

Metro breaks down the things to see and do there.

SEE
The Olkhon Island

It is the most picturesque corner of Baikal. The most impressive views are from the Burhan, Hoboy and Sagan-Hushun capes but the lake is breathtakingly beautiful from every angle.

HEAR
Music

Turn off your iPod. Listen to the music of the waves and the wind on the needles of the Siberian pines. Take the sounds of nature to your soul and you will soon sense that it is even cooler than the last album by your favorite band.

EAT
Fish from Baikal

Locals recommend Arctic cisco or grayling in all its forms: bloated, salted, dried. Also try traditional Buryatian cuisine like pozy, something like a big meat dumpling.

DRINK
Water from the lake

Baikal is one of the clearest lakes in the world, so don't miss your chance to taste it.

DO
Outdoor activities

Tourist activities include swimming, fishing, photography and of course walking. You can also rent a boat and take a trip along the coast.

Lose yourself in Lima's lure

PAUL BALDWIN
Metro World News

Lima was once the glittering hub of the Conquistadores' empire. Today it is often written off as stopover on the way to the Inca's Amazon treasures, but the city is an attraction in its own right.

You should start at the National Museum of Archaeology, Anthropology and History of Peru (museonacional.perucultural.org.pe), in Plaza Bolívar s/n Pueblo Libre.

At Metro Travel we don't normally recommend museums, but this one is a bit special. Absolutely rammed with Inca and pre-Inca treasures, the museum gives a breath-taking insight into the civilizations wiped out by the Spanish. It is a great place to begin or end a visit to Peru.

Tip

- Remain aware at all times and avoid the 'wealthy foreigner look'.

If you've been there before, how about trying some of Lima's whitewater rafting — particularly on the Urubamba River. It's about four hours drive so it's best to chose a two-day package that offers pick-up and return to Lima (from about $50).

And if you're looking to cap off your night — it's all about the food. The country's incredibly diverse geography, history of immigration and thousands of years of indigenous farming means Lima is in the centre of a land that has both superb ingredients and the creative chefs to turn them into unique and delicious dishes.

METRO WORLD NEWS

Overlooked in the past, Lima is no destination to pass up in Peru.

Insider tips for travelling in Lima

Metro brings you the best food and insider tips for your trip to Lima.

Best Supper Spots

Astrid y Gaston (astridygaston.com) serves French-influenced Peruvian food. Try the duck over lucuma (a subtropical fruit, very popular as an ice cream flavouring).

At La Hamaca (+511 242 7978), not only are the dishes splendid (try the spicy chicken soup), but the house, which looks like a cinematically art-directed Mexican hacienda, is exuberant.

Best Insider Tip

For a truly authentic experience of old sophisticated Lima, head to the Taberna el Queirolo (+511 460 0441) in the neighbourhood of Pueblo Libre.

Enjoy a traditional pisco in an elegant 17th-century colonial building only yards from the Anthropological Museum.

Sex and the City's economy

How to skip the recession: Look stylish and be rich, just like fans want it

Early on in Sex and the City 2, Charlotte, Carrie's stay-at-home-mom-on-Park-Avenue friend, is making pink-frosted cupcakes with her daughters.

One of the girls is also finger-painting, and suddenly she smacks her mom on the rear, leaving two bright red handprints on a cream-coloured Valentino skirt. "Lily!" Charlotte screams in fury. "This is VINTAGE!"

Let's leave aside the credulity-straining sight of a mother — any mother — making cupcakes and supervising finger-painting in vintage Valentino. Much less in cream.

Because the scene is typical of the film in another way. Charlotte, who doesn't work but has a live-in nanny, is clearly not suffering a whit from the recession that's hit New York since the first film. Neither is Carrie or Miranda — nor Samantha, unless you can blame menopause on the recession.

In fact, the downturn is virtually nowhere to be seen in Sex and the City 2 — not in the still crazy-expensive fashions worn by all four women, the spacious apartments, or the wedding that opens the movie, featuring swans, a chorus in white tie and tails, and a wedding cake dripping in crystals.

As Carrie might say, "Recession, Schmecession!"

And most fans, if not critics, are saying: "Great! Because that's sorta what we came for."

That's how Brayden LeBlanc sees it. "Listen, movies are fantasy," said the marketing student in Los Angeles. "This isn't a documentary. I don't WANT to see a recession in this movie!"

"I thought, OK, it's a depression," explained the film's writer and director, Michael Patrick King, to the website collider.com. "In the Great Depression what did people do? And I thought extravagance. Nobody wants to see Carrie Bradshaw selling apples under a bridge. That would be just depressing."

The life of the party

Get Him to the Greek shines light on rock star excess

KAREN BLISS
for Metro Canada

Just how far-fetched is Get Him to the Greek, the new movie by Forgetting Sarah Marshall director Nicholas Stoller, which reprises Russell Brand's rock star character from that film?

In the comedy, which opens this Friday, record company exec Sergio Roma (Sean "P. Diddy" Combs) entrusts intern Aaron Green (Jonah Hill) with the task of getting England's Aldous Snow (Brand) to his 10-year anniversary concert at the Los Angeles Greek Theatre.

"He is rock music personified," Green notes, and the craziness ensues from your basic all-night party antics to the ol' drug balloon up the bum trick to clear airport security (a.k.a. "candy in the jar," as Roma puts it).

Many people might think the script is over the top, but ask anyone in the music business and they'll have at least one similar story. Toronto's R.J. Guha recalls promoting a concert in the mid-'90s by Lee Scratch Perry when the Jamaican reggae/dub legend refused to perform.

Get Him To The Greek opens Friday

"He said, 'The hotel's haunted. I'm not staying here and I'm not playing.' We had to move him from the old Ramada on Jarvis to the King Eddy for three times the price," recalls Guha. "Then he decided to play and even then he was late, showed up and blew his whistle all night."

Record producer David Bendeth (Breaking Benjamin, Papa Roach, Hedley), a British-born Canadian now running his own studio in New Jersey, says "stuff happens" between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. — "that's when artists get into trouble." Knowing this, he doesn't schedule any recording sessions before noon, and still they "never" start on time. "Then we have the maid open the room and we find 33 beers on the floor. That's happened like 20 times."

Cam Carpenter, who has done marketing, artist relations, publicity, marketing and A&R for the majors, recalls a misunderstanding with an English rock star when he didn't go backstage after a show. He had seen him earlier, but was later spotted hanging out with the opener. After the irate singer wailed on the label president, Carpenter had to rush to Ottawa to straighten things out.

"I called a limo to take me home to grab a change of clothes, went to Cherry Beach to catch an Air Canada helicopter to get to Pearson, flew to Ottawa, caught a limo to the venue and made it to soundcheck on time, only to find out he refused to see me," Carpenter says, sounding like this could be a follow-up to Get Him to the Greek.

Jonah Hill and Russell Brand star in Get Him to the Greek.

"I caught a drive to Montreal the next day, was turned down at soundcheck again and then one hour after the sold-out show was taken in to the dressing room for our one-on-one. He seemed happy to see me, we had a pint and whatever was bothering him seemed to be forgotten."

Chances are when Roma tells Green in the movie, "Your job is to control the artist. If he's too messed up, hit him with this adrenalin needle," that no other record exec has gone to that extreme. But there might be someone out there with a story like that.

Meet the new face of Ashley Madison

PROMOTING ADULTERY TO HELP SUPPORT YOUR CHILDREN, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?! Jesse James' infamous former lover, Michelle "Bombshell" McGee, has signed a deal to star in TV ads for the pro-adultery dating site AshleyMadison.com.

In an interview with CTV's eTalk program McGee says she did so to ensure her two kids have a roof over their heads and food on the table.

The Montreal native had an 11-month affair with James — actress Sandra Bullock's soon-to-be ex-husband — and the media frenzy surrounding their relationship escalated after pictures of McGee and James emerged on the Internet in Nazi costumes.

But McGee says in the interview that she doesn't believe posing in a Nazi costume indicates any conscious display of racism or prejudice against Jews on her part.

As for Bullock, McGee says the Oscar-winning actress owes her a debt of gratitude for exposing James and letting her know he cheated on her.

The first part of the interview aired Monday and concludes Tuesday.

Cooper squashes Aniston rumours

NO HOLLYWOOD MATCH BETWEEN THESE TWO Bradley Cooper is finally setting the record straight on his rumored relationship with Jennifer Aniston last year. "I'm reading about me taking Jennifer Aniston to my Bel Air mansion and having a candlelit dinner, and I was like, 'That's crazy. Never happened,'" Cooper tells Details magazine.

He says the tabloid reports even gave him and the former Friends star something to joke about. "'Hey, we should hang out — the other dates that we never had went so well,'" he remembers saying to her. But he's not willing to dish on current girlfriend Renee Zellweger, saying, "I just can't" when asked about the actress.

'I never gave up'

SIX ATTEMPTS = TWO BABIES Celine Dion has just announced that she's pregnant, but just getting this far has already been exhausting, she admits. "I feel like I've been pregnant more than a year. I never gave up. But I can tell you that it was physically and mentally exhausting," the singer tells Montreal's Le Journal.

Dion reportedly went through six attempts at in vitro fertilization before finally becoming impregnated with twins. And now she says she's ready to take it easy. "I do almost nothing. If you tell me I have to stay in bed, I will stay in bed until November, when the babies are born," she says. "To bring them into the world, there's nothing more important than that."

Metro Recipe of the Day

Savoury Chicken and Biscuits

INGREDIENTS:
500 g skinless boneless chicken breasts, cubed
1 yellow onion, cut into chunks
225 g mushrooms, quartered
1 cup chicken broth
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tsp rosemary
1/4 tsp each salt and pepper
2 tbsp cornstarch mixed with 1/4 cup cold water
1 cup peas
1 jar sliced pimentos, drained

BISCUITS:
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 tsp minced onion
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tsp baking powder
1/4 tsp baking soda
1/8 tsp salt
3 tbsp butter

METHOD:
1. Preheat oven to 375°F (190°C). In large pot, combine chicken, onion chunks, mushrooms, broth, garlic, rosemary, 1/4 tsp salt and pepper. Boil, then simmer, uncovered, 3 minutes. Stir in cornstarch mixture. Cook 2 minutes. Stir in peas and pimentos; set aside.

2. For biscuits, combine buttermilk and minced onion; set aside. In large bowl, stir flour, baking powder, baking soda, and 1/8 tsp salt. Using pastry blender, cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in buttermilk mixture just until combined.

3. Pat dough into 23-cm circle. Cut 9 biscuits with 5-cm cutter. Bring chicken mixture to boil; transfer to 2-L casserole. Arrange biscuits on top. Bake 20 minutes or until biscuits are golden.

ARIES ♈
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
There are only so many hours in a day and it is a crime to waste even one of them tormenting yourself about things that are over and done with.

TAURUS ♉
APRIL 21-MAY 21
By all means get tough with someone today, but make sure they deserve to be criticized and make sure there is no way they can turn it back on you.

GEMINI ♊
MAY 22-JUNE 21
Keep things simple today. If you ask complicated questions you will tie yourself in knots and the answers will be just as far away as ever.

CANCER ♋
JUNE 22-JULY 22
You need to keep your wits about you today, especially when dealing with money. It's a big bad world out there, so stay sharp.

LEO ♌
JULY 23-AUG 23
A minor nuisance could easily develop into a major nuisance today, simply because you did not act quickly enough.

VIRGO ♍
AUG 24-SEPT 22
You don't have to justify your beliefs to anyone, and if someone tells you otherwise today they are not to be trusted.

LIBRA ♎
SEPT 23-OCT 23
You may not want to exert yourself today but you can still do something useful. Even reading a book or watching a TV program can expand your mind.

CAPRICORN ♑
DEC 22-JAN 20
You may be practical by nature but you also know how to enjoy yourself and with one extra special friend will enjoy your company too.

AQUARIUS ♒
JAN 21-FEB 18
It's okay to get a bit emotional occasionally, but it's not okay to let it get out of hand. There's no need for tears.
